2. The Buelow Kaserne was occupied by only a rear unit of about 50 soldiers who wore red-bordered black epaulets. Truck was seen entering the billeting area. (2)

3. Between 10 and 20 June, the northeastern section of the Eichhorn Kaserne on Muellroser Landstrasse was occupied to capacity by troops who wore black-bordered crimson epaulets. It could not be discerned whether the troops were permanently stationed there or whether they used the installation as transient quarters. No training activity was noticed. Some of the subsidiary buildings of the installation were still used by the Kech office for storage purposes. The southwestern section of the Eichhorn Kaserne was occupied by about 900 troops, approximately half of whom were recruits, who wore black-bordered crimson epaulets. The soldiers drilled, and practiced with hand grenades in the close-order combat courses. On 12 June, two units of from 30 to 40 men each were seen in the billeting area. Each unit carried field equipment and had four to six light machine guns.

Several hundred troops were quartered there by 20 June. No regular training activity was noticed. Some of the subsidiary buildings of the installation were still used by the Kech. (4)

6. On 20 June, the Horn Kaserne on Nuhnen Strasse quartered a rear unit of about 50 soldiers who wore red-bordered black epaulets with tank insignia. (2)

8. On 20 June, a train carrying troops with 6 x 85-mm AA guns, 2 field kitchens, 1 radio truck, 2 jeeps and about 20 trucks arrived at the freight yard of Frankfurt/Oder. The troops were unloaded and moved to the Artillerie Kaserne. (1) going between the installation and the passenger railroad station. They were occupied by officers and NCOs of various branches of service. (4)

10. Prior to 12 June, the quarantine station of the Gronenfelde PW processing camp on Nuhnen Strasse, south of the Horn Kaserne, was occupied by 20 to 30 soldiers who wore red-bordered black epaulets. New troops moved into the quarantine station on 13 June. They were seen assembling into three units of about 200 EM each, who wore red-bordered black epaulets, some with artillery and some with tank insignia. (2) training, namely at the Lieberose troop training grounds.

- (3) While the occupation of the southwestern section of the Lich-horn Kaserne has not changed, the northeastern section, which contains a furniture depot of the Kech, was probably used as transient quarters for recruits and/or discharges and personnel going on, or returning from, furlough, as was observed in 1950.

- (4) Since the Hofbauer Kaserne is known to be used as a furniture depot of the Kech and as transient quarters, the information contained in paragraphs 5 and 8 of the present report probably is correct inasmuch as recruits and discharges and personnel going on, or returning from, furlough are believed to be quartered there.

- (5) It is possible that also the quarantine station of the former PW repatriation camp is being used as a processing camp for Soviet military personnel.
